Don't miss this unique opportunity to network with CREW Northern Virginia, CREW Maryland Suburban, and CREW DC members. CREW National Capital Committee (CNCC) has brought together the top real estate women in the metro area to discuss the direction of real estate in the Greater Washington Area.

Jeannette Chapman, Deputy Director and Senior Research Associate at the The Stephen S. Fuller Institute, George Mason University (GMU), will lead the discussion and will focus her comments on about economic trends, capital markets, demographics, and employment changes within the Mid-Atlantic region. Top brokers from Northern Virginia, Maryland, and DC will provide a market overview with a focus on local trends, development, leasing conditions, and much more.

Jeannette joined GMU in 2013 as the Research Associate at the Center for Regional Analysis (CRA). Prior to joining GMU, she was the Research Associate for Economic Growth and Development at the DowntownDC Business Improvement District. She received BA's in Economics and Foreign Affairs from the University of Virginia and a Master's degree in Public Policy from GMU.
